Luyolo Pondo is a resilient individual residing in Harare, Khayelitsha, along with his siblings. After successfully completing his education at Manyano High School in 2018, he embarked on a journey to pursue his passion for Mechanical Engineering at False Bay College. Unfortunately, due to financial constraints, Luyolo was unable to complete his training, but his determination remains unwavering.

With a profound love for literature and music, Luyolo finds solace and inspiration in these artistic expressions. However, his true calling lies in entrepreneurship. Motivated by the uncertainty of working under someone else's authority, with limited income compared to a company's profits, Luyolo aspires to establish his own business. He recognizes the potential for greater financial rewards and the freedom to make independent decisions that come with being an entrepreneur.

Driven by a strong desire to address the prevalent social and economic issues of education, particularly affecting the youth in his community, Luyolo aims to make a meaningful impact. He wants to create ethical employment opportunities for individuals who engage in illicit activities. Luyolo firmly believes that a single person can initiate substantial change in the world and is particularly passionate about leveraging technology to empower others.

Through his unwavering determination and commitment, Luyolo Pondo envisions a future where education is accessible to all, empowering the youth in his community to explore their full potential and build a brighter tomorrow.
